Q: What are the causes of constipation in adults? A: Don't worry, constipation is a problem that annoys one third of Americans every year. Many causes lead to constipation: Lifestyle and Diet: A poor diet and an inactive lifestyle are the most common causes of constipation. Lack of exercise and eating too much junk food can leave you inactive for more than three days. It is advisable to be careful if the following causes apply to your condition: Dairy products Foods high in fat and sugar Lack of foods high in fat and sugar Lack of exercise and whole grains) Lack of water and other liquids Alcohol or caffeine Also, when you feel the need to defecate, use immediately. Sending it off for a more convenient time (like when you come home, for example) can lead to constipation. Medications: Constipation is a common side effect of many frequently prescribed medications. Some common medications that can cause constipation is a common side effect of many frequently prescribed medications. include diuretics, antacids (with aluminum and calcium), narcotics, antidepressants, supplements, anticonvulsants, and blood pressure treatments. Health Conditions: Constipation can also be a side effect or symptom of many health conditions. These conditions can cause stools to pass more slowly through the colon, resulting in constipation. I lived with my dad, an old boyfriend, my best friend, a new boyfriend, and my sister, and now I have my own apartment! Taking the right steps to get your first apartment will help you secure the place of your dreams independently. I've been out of my father's house since I was 17. I lived with an old boyfriend, my best friend, a new boyfriend and my sister. After years of not having a place to really call myself my own, I decided I was tired and was going to get my first apartment. As I sit here in my lovely little two-bedroom apartment, Third floor, I think about how overwhelming and stressful to arrive here. I didn't have any guide and no idea where to start, and that's why I wrote this article. Adults make all kinds of assumptions about what young people should already know ... things that those young people have never been Teached and have never had any experience in. I hope to light on the details of how you too can make realize Apparently impossible to try to exit alone. I will not give you useless information and I will try not to make lessons. I just want you to know everything I know now to help you be fully prepared for what's going to get. How to get your first apartment when looking for an apartment, the price is the first thing to consider, but the price and the position go hand in hand. How old are you for renting an apartment? Only adults are legally authorized to sign rental contracts. Since most states have established age of age at age 18, this means that it is not possible to rent until you are an adult, and the owners are legally authorized to refuse to refuse to refuse to rent to you if you are below The 18 years. I am 17 years old: does it mean that I can't rent? There are exceptions. For example, you could find a nice host who is willing to run a risk about you, although it could hurt long-term evil (because if you can't pay, they don't have a legal appeal if you're not a adult). Or if you are legally emancipated by the Court, married or in military service, these circumstances could weigh in you're not a adult). Or if you can get an adult to co-score for you and promise to pay rent if it is not possible, this can also allow a younger renter to proceed. How much money do you have to do 3 to 3.5 times the rental cost to be considered also for approval. This is because they know that other life costs (food, transport, utilities, health, etc.) will cost a lot, so as not to be able to afford to pay the rent if you do not make the minimum income requirement. What apartments can I afford? If there is no elevator, the apartments on the upper floors will be cheaper because most people do not want to carry foodstuffs to a stairs ramp. An apartment near the shops and other comforts will be considerably more expensive than a little further away from a highway. In general, a landlord will charge more if you smoke or has pets, since there will be more cleaned involved. Smoking or animal-free apartments could cost just less for this reason. Consider the cost of security I know that the truly cheap apartments seem the perfect place for a young adult broken, but having stolen things can be really afford, I suggest you find a roommate and a better area or Extra security measures for you and your car. Also, invest in a deadbolt! Where should I look for apartments? Ask your friends for rent to keep your ears open for vacation in their building. Craigslist, so it's always a great resource, but keep in mind that some very sketchy people use Craigslist, or a a Let you know exactly where you are your loved ones. Your credit score is more than your age if everything else is the same, a landlord would probably choose a 18-year-old with a 550 credit score on a 30-year-old with a 550. Different types of rental contracts If I have a roommate, whose name should go for rent? All the names of the duty must be on the rental contract! Seriously. It's a big thing. This rule applies even if the roommate is your girlfriend, boy, or best friend. If the name of your roommate is not rented, they can leave you high and dry with a rent you probably cannot afford itself. If your credit is bad, then your roommate is not rented, they can leave you high and dry with a rent you probably cannot afford itself. leaves them legally and financially vulnerable, so you don't want to take that risk for you. Also, a broken lease is really bad to have on your record and makes a million times more difficult to rent another apartment. Really, trust me. If you find someone who is already experiencing in an apartment and wants to rent a room - or the whole place, while I'm out of town - without putting your name on the lease, this is known as Subleas or SubletTing. In this case, as a subtentant, it is necessary to pay the rent you agree to anticipate and obey all the terms of the lease, but it is ultimately responsible contractually if something goes wrong. On the other hand, since you haven't signed, you are not guaranteed a place, and they could get you every time they want. Using your furniture to decorate is rewarding! Roommen with whom are you going to live? Is he with a friend or two? A boy or a girl? Or even alone? In both cases, you have to make sure that anyone who decides to take the dip is reliable, dependent, and that someone who will not leave you in peace if things turn hard. And if rented my boyfriend or my girlfriend? I know it's trying to want to move with your boyfriend or you reready to pass 6-12 months in a contract with yours lover. Of course, you don't have to answer the rules of parents and the possibility of creating a small shelter just for you two could be great, but just think about what happens if, in four months, the stress of the bills, work, and who will do the dishes finally get to you? Personally I am very happy with my choice to live with my boyfriend, but we had already tested the waters at home of him. Not everyone is so lucky. If you think you and your friend have enough resistance to go out together, it's fantastic! More power to you and good luck! Just make sure to come to an agreement on what happens if you decide to break before the contract location is up. What if I rent a friend (or more)? This situation is not as risky as moving with your other significant, but still poses some possible problems. Living with too many people can become annoying. Sometimes myYou want to have a party when all I want is to watch TV in your stay. Both need to agree on how to manage those situations, as you will share responsibilities and if you plan to buy food for the whole house or buy your food. Make sure they are reliable! What happens if I want to live alone? Wow, it takes courage to get out alone. Even if sometimes it can be more difficult to get approved if you have no credit, Kudos to you if you can do it! Make sure y responsible for the property, but you can be driven at any time. Questions to ask when you are watching a APARKGO in advance and ask any questions. It is better to ask too many questions that not enough. They should see it as a sign of responsibility. Is there a laundry on site? A free, or will you have to pay to use the machines? Otherwise, is there a coin-operated laundry at foot? How is water pressure? Will there a room resident manager? Is the safe area? What is the parking situation? Is there a lot, you assigned a space, parking costs more? It is close to transport (bus or train)? Other things to think about when you are viewing an apartment ... consider bringing a tape measure so you can check to make sure your furniture is adapted AQESIONS to ask a roommate before moving together. Is your daily routine? What are your furniture is adapted AQESIONS to ask a roommate before moving together. Is your furniture is adapted AQESIONS to ask a roommate before moving together. Is your furniture is adapted AQESIONS to ask a roommate before moving together. take the sonnellini? Are you sleeping difficult or easy? (Do you need a total silence?) On a scale from 1 to 10, how much are you ordered? How will we disclose the chores? How often do you cook? Will the food be shared, or will we disclose the chores? How hot (or nice) do you like to keep the apartment? Write the heat or A / C? Do you like high volume music? What you will use your home space? (Work, parties, etc.) What space or objects are public (belonging to all) and what are personal? Are you going to have your girlfriend / boyfriend? If so, how often? Can we have night guests? Will there be pets? On a scale from one to 10, how modest are you? What are your physimas?, What you can't stand? How do you disclose shared expenses? There is a free app called splitwise (on the web, iPhone and Android) that helps you keep track of the bills and shared expenses and automatically divide the cost so it's right! A lease is What documents you will have to get your apartment I found your ideal apartment, the really stressful stuff begins. You must be approved by leasing agents. Here are some things that look and what you need to qualify for most of the apartments. You meed to have your last three paid stubs and you have to have your current work for at least 6 months. your monthly income must amount to 33,5 times the amount you will probably be asked to provide names and contact information for both professional and personal references. These are people who will ensure you are a responsible person. they will probably also want to know which bank or and which balances you carry. They could ask to see those bank records. credit control. Owners often charge candidates a fee to perform their credit reports. even if you do not get the apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment, you might have to pay this fee. this is a great for most apartment complexes, especially for first time rentals. copy of the credit report from each of them every year if you order online from annualcredit cards, you should check your credit card or if you have no credit card or if you have no credit card or if you have no credit cards, you should check your credit cards, you should check your credit card or if you have no credit cards, you should check your credit cards. you will have a credit score. If you do not have a good credit score, a landlord is not likely to rent you. I haven't had much credit history since I've never had a credit card, bought a car, paid bills, etc, and that almost prevented me from getting my apartment. Luckily, one of my roommates had a good credit history and this saved us. If you don't have a good credit, it's unlikely that a landlord will rent you. you will need to find an apartment with friends who have a good credit or ask an adult responsible for co-signing for you. Before you dare from your parents' house or guardian, you must start building your credit. Take a credit card and pay your balance every month. If you cannot be approved for a credit card, please ask a parent to co-sign a credit card with you or allow you to be an authorized user of their credit score is and how to control it. Read the fastest and best ways to improve your credit for more information. Be responsible! I can't stress it enough. not having credit is one thing, but having bad credit is another, and it will be very difficult for you to rent if you have bad credit. What you do now affects you for the rest of your life. bad credit honestly makes life much harder than it should be. What different types of rent are there? most apartments have month-to-month rentals and offer everyone flexibility. this means that either the landlord (you) or the landlord can change or conclude the agreement toof every month. If no one renegotiates the signed contract, the contract is automatically renewed every month, however, so you don't have to keep signing new documents. To conclude this agreement, you must give notice. A fixed-term lease means you agree to stay and pay the rent for an extended period of time (usually one year) and if you break this lease, you will lose your deposits The owner can sue. There is no guarantee that you can stay after the year has expired. Is the apartment managed by a property management company or just an individual owner. The company will probably be less practical, but sometimes it is nice to deal with an individual person. Anyway, you'll want to do your research first to make sure there aren't any red flags. You can ask the other tenants of the building what their experience is, for example, or talk to the neighbors. Do a quick Google search of their company, name or rental address to see what you can find out. Don't forget the cost of movement Don't forget the cost of movement Don't forget the cost of movements, boxes and packaging materials, a truck or a van, a gas, a container, etc. How does the lease application approval process work? How long did the rental approval take? Approval Take three days to three weeks, depending on how quickly you get all the information you need for leasing agents and how quickly they complete it. For us, it took almost three weeks because we were not prepared and the four of us were not coordinated as we should have. What are there taxes? You will normally have to pay an administrative fee, as they wish to call it. Basically you pay them for the time spent trying to get approved and check your income, employment, rental history and references. Our administration fee was $45 for each signatory of the lease. What about a deposit? After you approve, you'll have to pay the security deposit. It is reimbursed when you move, less the cost of repairing damage or cleaning costs. We had a $250 deposit due to our lack of credit. How much will it cost to move into an apartment? Add the administration fee, the credit check fee and the deposit, plus the first and last month's rent, and that's the hefty amount you'll have to pay in advance before you can even get your hands on the keys. Check all the appliances before moving to a new place.even after you have paid all the moving taxes and got your keys, there are more things you will have to pay for the front, such as electricity and gas that you are approved for your apartment, you will be required to have electricity and gas on the date on which you are scheduled to move. Useful sites to check when choosing your electricity company are www.whitefence.com and www.powertochoose.com. Do not wait until the last minute to set this up because it is normally a waiting period of 3-5 days until they can get out there and turn it on. How much will be the cost of electricity and gas, per month? My ranges of Bill Electricity from $125- $180. I have two bedrooms and we rarely run the A/C, although we use the heater during the winter. I try to turn off the lights when nobody's using them, but my roommates aren't that accurate. Units (water / garbage) Apartments normally charged for water, sewer and garbage garbage much utility costs, per month? These bills can vary anywhere from $15-$50 a month. I pay about $25-50 for water and garbage. It's a little higher than most because my complex uses. Many apartments will charge a fixed fee, which can be better for those who will live with a very strict budget. Note on margin: I'm not rich at all. Having three roommates attenuates the blow of these expenses. I end up paying $15 for my share of the water bill. Internet and cable Do not forget to pre-empte for int ernet and cable. We recommend you look around to find the best deals before deciding which company to go with. MobiliThere are many ways to save money and still have all the functional furniture you need. Try garage sales, Habitat for Humanity, Goodwill, flea markets, or friends and family who have a sofa or a coffee table that they no longer want. Check Craigslist, where you will often find great deals on objects... some are even free! Never underestimate the power of Febreze and a sofa cover to revitalize that old sofa on the sidewalk. Look hard and you might encounter some impressive findings! You can also rent furniture. Sometimes, they offer funding programs that allow you to pay monthly installments Additive expenses Don't forget about everything else you need to assign money for in your budget. Here are the things I can think you will also spend on: Food Food or Transport Phone Fun Personal hygiene products Pots, pans and utensils Supply for cleaning Detergenti and soaps for dishes Piatti/Pentole/Pentole Laundry Set up a realistic budget and get all the things you need before moving. I suggest you slowly collect them over some salaries so that the cost is not so heavy when you are trying to pay for the deposit. Take your pet policy contracted into consideration. What happens if I have a pet... or do I want one? If you are moving just from your parents' house, leave all pets there if you can. If you don't have a pet but you want one, I strongly suggest you wait. I know you want the company of an animal friend, but you still haven't figured out how much the pets cost: vet bills, vaccinations, food, cot... not to mention the fact that it will be more difficult to find a place that accepts pets and you will have to pay additional non-refundable deposits. I assure you that taking care of you will be pretty busy. It is not necessary to take care of a pet, too! What?if my rental application is accepted? What?if my rental application is accepted. What?if my rental application is accepted. What?if my rental application is accep checklist to take note of any damage. This is very important because if you do not take note of all the chips, broken, scratched or damaged things you see, you might befor them later and lose everything or part of your security deposit. Congratulations! You're officially alone! Maybe I lost a few things, or maybe you want to ask specific questions in the comments section below. I'll try to answer as much as I can. Thank you for reading and good luck! Keep a file of all documents Make sure to keep copies of the walk-through checklist, the contract you sign, and any other transfer document! Angela on August 17, 2019: How can I get an apartmenthannahxdee (author) on June 15, 2019: Brittany, happy this article helped! I haven't seen a lot of Big Bang Theory episodes, but this could work. I would certainly do some research on how well that contract would be to keep on if your roommate decided to bail & DEFINITELY have their name on the lease. If everything else fails, maybe try renting a room in someone's house. Besides, I heard that people have good luck! Brittany on June 15, 2019:Hey, this was very helpful, thank you very much! I'm also looking for a roommate, but I don't have close friends. Would it be risky to put out a flyer and do what Sheldon did in Big Bang Theory? (make a contract and take notes) Natalie on May 28, 2019: I'm 18 and I'm 350 every 2 weeks, is that enough to start? jaguar on January 16, 2019: I love this page! so useful hannahxdee (author) on December 28, 2018: Hailey, I would definitely save the money you can before moving. Whether or not you should have roommates depends on your current salary. You want to be able to afford all the bills and put some away in savings every month. If you can do this without roommates, then I'd say so. hannahxdee (author) on December 04, 2018: Shar and Haygood902 - I am so happy to help! Good luck! Shar on December 04, 2018: That was really helpful. I've been living with my friends since I was 16 years im currently 17 and now I'm with my boyfriend and we're planning to leave when I turn 18 March. I am very scared but this made it a little more exciting thanks! Haygood902 on 05 September 2018: This was very useful. I am 17 I'll be 18 in December. I've been thinking about moving in since I was 16. As soon as I'm 18, I'm 18. With my boyfriend who has 19 years old this month and this would be the first time I moved away from my sister to think that it was so close to me since my mother died 6 years ago. He thinks so much about Hannah for the advice on the money. Destiny up 16, 2017: Hey im 15 years im BE 16 His Dec. I'm trying to get my apartment as I can get my apartment as I can get my apartment as I can get my apartment a bit like I have a jobjanna on 12 February 2017: Hey Dalton, I also work at Chick-fil-a! And I'm in the same boat. The financing can be a great pain. Dalton on January 20, 2017: I am 17 years old and I intend to leave as soon as possible. But I work at the girl's bathroom, making about $ 270 to check twice a month. All that sounds expensive, as you do only $ 300ashley on December 20, 2016: I am 16 years old and I have much planned for my future. He will have 18 years old before graduating and moved to a different state. Well, if I have an apartment there, or at least try to get approved, it will be more difficult since I just moved there and will have just started my job or will it be the application? Tatyana Gordon on 09 December 2016: I am 25 years old and with my first job, I work as a cashier in a wholesale club. I am practically homeless, I had to go back with a mistreater that I had left six years ago. She is a hoarder available and I'm literally sleeping on the garbage, surrounded by plus garbage, surrounded by plus garbage. Since the work is seasonal, I can't count on it as a constant income yet. My shoes are falling apart, and it's really cold inside this place as out. In addition to sleeping in what looks like a garbage grave, I sleep on the floor. I can't use anything in the kitchen because it is inaccessible. I don't have a good merit, but I would be willing to live with the roommates. I live in New York, the rent here is very expensive. Christina S Phomsouvanh November 27, 2016: Hi Im trying to get my place and I never understood if I get approval I was watching a bedroom and have a special said 399 to move. My credit is a 517 I do not have a machine nor I have a credit card that I do about 3000+ a month but how can I enter any apt if my 517 score without rental history jacquerria and 5 months decided to move together and I was wondering with the application he needs to fill it with me or can I fill it and then add it to the lease? What should I do? Arianna on September 19, 2016: Hi Hannah! Currently they are 17, but I'm going to move with a friend or my boyfriend for my birthday, which is in March. I wanted to know, when are you looking for a house where you are looking for? I'm using Zillow for 6 months. So do you have a real estate agent, look for online? I'm really looking forward to an answer!! Thanks ??? hannahxdee (author) on 27 August 2015: Hi Lexi! I understand perfectly where you come from. It seems you and your boyfriend are pretty serious, that it's good when you're looking to do so big commitment by moving together. A word of advice girl a girl, if any doubt in your mind regarding if you two will break during your lease, seriously advice against together. It happened to me and I ended up having a broken lease because of him. Believe me... You don't want it. It really sucks and makes renting a million times harder again. Anyway, now that I'm done with the warnings, let's jump right in! Looking at your situation, it seems that it might be pretty difficult for you two. I don't think that's impossible, but the best chance to rent your apartment is to find someone with a good credit to co-fix your lease. This can be a family member, a friend, etc. and would make the whole process a LOAD easier. If this is absolutely not an option, my second suggestion would be roommates. Especially someone with a good credit. Since you don't earn much, you can also try to search for low-income apartments in your area. I've seen some very beautiful ones near me! Go inside and talk to someone. They can explain everything they need from you and most will try to work with you. If the fact that you two do not have credit and the minimal work history ends up ruining your opportunities to rent a complex right now, my last suggestion is to try to search on Craigslist people who need roommates. They can't control your credit. In the meantime... Get a SICURATA credit card. Deposit your money on the card and behave like a real credit card. . Google it. IMMENSELY helped me. I hope this helped a little! Let me know if you have any further guestions xxxLexi on August 27, 2015: Hannah, I wanted to move in a long time now; However, I am only 18 years old and this is my first year of college. My boyfriend and I have been together for four and a half years and are seriously trying to move out of our parents' homes and make a life of ours. He works for his father and has no credit, while I have just become employed in retail last month without credit as well. We don't get much, but we're willing to do everything we can to make this work! We have no idea where to start, especially when it comes to getting approval. I spent many hours searching for my options, but not many people know what it means to move to such a young age without a guide. I hope your situation can make us light on our own! I would like to know what advice you could give us - whatever would be useful! Thank you very much. Caleb Hart from Provo, Utah, March 09, 2015: I'm moving on my own, and I'm gonna need some help. I live with my friends.Nora Moore on March2015: It is true that apartments usually cost less if they are not on the first floor. Understanding roommates can be difficult, but if you can find someone reliable that will help keep things much more enjoyable. My daughter's on her own now. Now.I should tell her to make sure her name and her roommate have to be rented. I'm pretty sure he's gonna get into the room with a friend, so at least it's not that risky. I should show you this article. on March 30, 2014: So me and my girlfriend are both in our early/half twenties and we want to have our own apartment. We're looking, but finding the right person to rent is the problem. I worked for 6 months and left my job for a better opportunity closer to home. I've been at my current job for about a month. My girlfriend was working at a recruitment agency, but since you have to make sales and it's not a secure job, she found a better opportunity elsewhere and left after 3 months. Our combined credit score is not that high, but it is fair. The mines are bad because of student loans and the monitoring system. I've done some research on how to get approved, but the answers I'm getting are 50/50 chance we'll get approved. Plus, we want a safe environment somewhere between $550-850. The higher the price, I hope some utilities are included. Also, both of our jobs are under the table so I know a note from employers will be great. I just need answers to know what to expect. We haven't been denied rentals, but I want to prepare for the worst. Any advice on what to do?hannahxdee (author) January 24, 2014: Hello Ambria! It's exciting that you're taking the first steps to get out, and do so responsibly! I'd save at least three months' rent as a contingency fund in case someone loses their job. If there are three of the four people working, I would stick to a rent price of $900 or less. I'm not sure where you live, so it might be a good dose to work with or not. Problems could come if there is a person who does not pull their weight into the house. Will the four of them be sharing a car? It's possible, but probably not ideal. I would buy the car first (in short) though. While you are saving, even HIGHLY advises all of you to start buying household supplies (toilet paper, laundry/laundry detergent, toothpaste, shampoo, etc.) and other items so you don't have to shell out the money before you move out. My only caution is to be COMPLETE confident that everyone will be respected by the rules of the house. Some good ones to start will be: Will the food be shared or separate. Who buys toilet paper? Don't feel weird about setting rules and boundaries! It's so much easier to figure everything out before everyone else. Signed a contract and someone decides not to like it as someone wants to end. A broken rental contract will thus make it so difficult to rent again. Trust me! I wish you a lot of luck in this, and let me know if you have questions at all! Thank you thank you and I hope I can help:) Ambria on January 23, 2014: Hey, it's Ambria. I'm 18 and I'm going to move to an apartment with my boyfriend, his best friend and my bes working and saving. We should wait until we have a certain amount or take the car first. only looking for advice. Thank you!hannahxdee (author) on 01 December 2013: Jill - looks pretty stressful! Let me know if you have questions or situations you need help with. Good luck!hannahxdee (author) on 01 December 2013: Weston, I'm sorry! I didn't see your comment until today. Let me know if you need help moving again! jill on 30 November 2013: I was on the brink of panic to take my first apartment, sign the lease and start the move tomorrow. We don't even have electricity. My friend is pissed off because he's helping and he has to stay the night. I bought some candles. I think there's gonna be a pizza wedding night. Haha sat at work to underline this makes me mad. I wish the cold had done it more perfectly. I'm already annoyed with my roommate, but I have to learn that not everything can go my way! Still the feeling of independence will be worth everything. A place of mine. weston on June 13, 2013: Hi im 17 and I'm thinking of moving in, but I have no one who would be my roommate I'm thinking of moving in where my girlfriend lives, but I don't know if sick being able to get an apartment and if I can do it on miniamum wag, my mom moved us a lot and I just want to settle in my place near my love, but she can't move until she is 18 so im alone for a couple of months what I have to do doprincess on June 06, 2012: Very helpful!!!! Andrew on 02 July 2011: Hi again, Hannah. I can't believe it's been about a month and a half since I started taking my place seriously. Many things have changed at such a rapid pace. Believe it or not, I'm closing my apartment on Monday, July 4th! The trigger, right? I'm still very nervous and scared, but this time, it's accompanied by a sense of excitement and even a little pride... something that means more to me than to others. I think I can get out well. Once again, I am so grateful to have met your article. Of all the articles I have read and the professionals (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have you very thank you very land the professionals (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have read and the professionals (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have you very land the professionals (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have you very land the professionals (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have you very land the professionals (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have you very land the professionals (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have you were larger than the professional with the professional specialist (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist, etc.) with which I have you were larger than the professional specialist (Lawyer, Realtor, Mortgage Specialist) with the professional specialist (Lawyer, Realtor, much for feedback. feedbac much for writing this article. It's the first time I've ever met the real "connected." I've had a low self-esteem all my life and I'm finally in a place where I have enough courage to venture out on my own and be independent. The thought of being independent scares me the living hell, but your article gave me a little more confidence to move on. Thanks
