Thursday, the irony of feb is here, I can feel it. I think not! 6 months of service, paying about $300 - $500 monthly, ending with an additional bill for $2100, all for a shotgun house. I can also feel them banging on my credit report, which was flawless, because I didn't pay from August 15 (paid posted) to November 7 (paid posted) to November 8 (paid posted) to November 9 (paid posted) to Novemb more Electric companies reported interruptions. Entergy Arkansas reported to 9:00 Morning £ That 7,321 customers throughout the state were powerless. He also assured me that my services would not be disconnected. How do you contest an energetic balance or an unfair criterion? We were working through him. They say it's my fault by signing up for the service, "as they advise their customers not to do for the first year of their service." Ahem, I was not advised "do not sign up". In fact, I was encouraged, but now he certainly discouraged. We know this was terrible weather, frigidly cold. On November 30, my electricity was disconnected, forcing me to pay for this addition not allowed to my account of $ 439.50 plus a later rate of $ 5.79 and also A rate of reconnecting $ 2.50, which all in total = $ 447.79. I'm begging you to attack what happened and who authorized this transfer to my account. Even you forget to pay and you have been reported. As they told me: "After 90 days, we reported to the criterion agencies." Who's making your mathematics? 4. The map showed that most interruptions from the Harrisburg area was fixed.
