I look and stare so deep in your eyes, I touch on you more and more every time, When you leave I'm begging you not to go, Call your name two or three times in a row, Such a funny thing for me to try to explain, How I'm feeling and my pride is the one to blame yeah. 'Cuz I know I don't understand, Just how your love can do what no one else can [Chorus:] Got me looking so crazy right now, your love's Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your kiss Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your kiss Got me looking so crazy right now, your kiss Got me looking so crazy right now, your kiss Got me looking so crazy right now, your kiss Got me looking so crazy right now, your kiss Got me looking so crazy right now, your kiss Got me looking so crazy right now.
 When I talk to my friends so quietly, Who he think he is? Look at what you've done to me, Tennis shoes, don't even need to buy a new dress, You ain't here, ain't nobody else to impress, It's the way that you know what I thought I knew, It's the beat that my heart skips when I'm with you, But I still don't understand, Just how your love can do what no one else can. [Chorus:] Got me looking so crazy right now, your love's Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now, your touch Got me looking so crazy right now.

Love (2003). The song was released as her official debut single and as the album's lead single on May 14, 2003, through Columbia Records and Music World Entertainment. Both artists wrote and composed the song in collaboration with Rich Harrison and Eugene Record; the former also produced it with Beyoncé. Using samples from the Chi-Lites's 1970 song "Are You My Woman (Tell Me So)", "Crazy in Love" is a pop, hip hop and R&B love song that incorporates elements of soul, and 1970s-style funk music. Its lyrics describe a romantic obsession that causes the protagonist to act out of character. "Crazy in Love" was a number-one hit in the United States and United Kingdom, and reached the top ten in various other countries worldwide. Music critics praised the hook, Jay-Z's contribution, and Beyoncé's assertive delivery of the lyrics. VH1 declared it the greatest song of the 2000s decade, while Rolling Stone ranked it at number 16 on their list of the 500 greatest songs of all time in 2011, and in 2018, declared the song the greatest of the 21st century so far.[3] At the 46th Annual Grammy Awards (2004), "Crazy in Love" won Grammy Awards for Best R&B Song and Best Rap/Sung Collaboration. The song's accompanying music video features Beyoncé in various dance sequences. It won three awards at the 2003 MTV Video Music Awards, and its director, Jake Nava, won the Music Video Production Association award for Best R&B Video in 2004. Since 2003, "Crazy in Love" has been a staple in Beyoncé's live performances and concert tours. The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) recognized "Crazy in Love" as one of the most performed songs of 2004. Artists including David Byrne have covered the song, and it has been used in various television shows and other media. Development and production Jay-Z, who is a featured artist on "Crazy in Love," was asked by Beyoncé to contribute to the song. By July 2002, Beyoncé had already recorded several songs which would appear on Dangerously in Love. Columbia Records planned to release the album in October 2002; however, the release was postponed several times to capitalize on the success of American rapper Nelly's 2002 single "Dilemma," which features Beyoncé's former Destiny's Child colleague Kelly Rowland.[4] These delays allowed Beyoncé to record more songs for the album.[5] Before meeting Beyoncé, Rich Harrison had conceptualized the beat of the song.[6] He had sampled the hook's instrumentation from the 1970 song "Are You My Woman? (Tell Me So), "[6][7] which had originally been written and composed by Eugene Record, frontman of the Chicago-based vocal group the Chi-Lites.[5] When Harrison first played the beat to his friends, they could not "dig it," and this made him realize that he had conceived something special, which people would appreciate better after hearing the whole record. [6] Thus Harrison decided not to market the selection, and instead, he waited for the right artist to record it: "I had it in the chamber, I had not really shopped it much, because sometimes you do not want to come out of the bag before it's right. People do not really get it and you will leave them with a foul taste in their mouth."[6] Harrison was pleasantly surprised when he got a call from Beyoncé, who was working on one of the most anticipated albums of the year.[6] However, things did not turn up according to his plans the following day, as he was late and was still suffering the effects of a hangover.[6] When Harrison played the sample to Beyoncé in the studio, the singer initially had doubts about the "sound so full of blaring fanfare;"[6] it seemed too retro and according to her, no one used horn riffs in the 21st century.[5] Nevertheless, Beyoncé accepted the sample, much to Harrison's delight, and gave him two hours to write and compose the song while she went out.[6] Harrison confessed that it was not easy for him to come up with the lyrics to "Crazy in Love" in that length of time.[5] But two hours later, he had written the verses and the hook, in spite of being hung over.[6] Harrison had also made provision for a backing track;[5] he played all the instruments on the track.[6] The bridge was written by Beyoncé,[6] who was inspired by looking at herself in the mirror;[5] as she was not wearing matching clothes and her hair was untidy, she kept saying, "I'm looking so crazy right now."[8] Harrison sang back to her and said, "That's the hook."[8] It also inspired the title of the song.[5] After that Beyoncé had filled up the middle eight, she came up with the catchphrase - "Uh-oh, uh-oh, you know" - alongside Harrison.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song's production.[8] American rapper Jay-Z became involved late in the song should be a song should b took place nearly three months following the meeting of Beyoncé with Harrison.[8] Music and lyrics "Crazy in Love", a pop number,[10] which uses a traditional cowbell rhythm that is often found in samba music.[11] The hook lines, which are built on a "propulsive" horn sample,[12] were further qualified as "hard-core,"[13] "instantly addictive,"[14] and "blazing" by music critics.[15] Problems playing this file? See media help. According to the sheet music published at Musicnotes.com by Alfred Music Publishing, "Crazy in Love" was composed in the key of D-minor and F-major. It incorporates influences of 1970s-style funk,[10] hip hop, and soul.[16] As commented by Robert Webb of The Independent, the old soul influences in the song seem to have been derived from the horn hook,[5] which samples the 1970 song "Are You My Woman? (Tell Me So)."[6] Having a go-go vibe,[5] "Crazy in Love" is built on a hip hop beat.[17] Beyoncé told The Sunday Herald that the beat is "so hard that it makes your heart hurt."[18] The song's tempo is a moderate 100 beats per minute, in common time.[19] Beyoncé's vocal range spans around one and a half octaves in the song, from the low note of F5.[19] "Crazy in Love" uses two major chords, Bb and G, a minor third apart.[19] One of the main vocal riffs uses the traditional cowbell rhythm often found in samba music.[20][11] Lisa Verrico of The Times magazine, wrote that "Crazy in Love" makes use of big drums and bits of brass.[21] According to Natalie Nichols of the Los Angeles Times, the lyrics of "Crazy in Love" reference a state of romantic obsession.[22] Beyoncé said that the song talks "about how, when you are falling in love, you do things that are out of character and you do not really care because you are just open."[23] Anthony DeCurtis of Rolling Stone wrote that "Crazy in Love" has "such a cauldron of energy," that Beyoncé sounds "loose and sexy," gripped by emotions she "can neither understand nor control."[12] The lyrics are composed in the traditional verse-chorus form. Jay Z opens the song with a brief spoken verse-rap, containing the lyrics: "Yes! So crazy right now. Most incredibly, it's your girl, B. It's your girl, backed chorus.[21] She repeats the "uh-oh, uh-oh" phrase, leading to the second verse. The chorus follows, giving way to the second verse to the s bridge, singing: "I'm not myself, lately I'm foolish, I don't care / 'Cuz your love's got the best of me, / You got me sprung and I don't care who sees."[24] She then sings the chorus again and the song fades out with the horns.[19] Release "Crazy in Love" was first released for digital download via iTunes Store in the United States on May 14, 2003.[25] It was then sent to rhythmic contemporary, [26] contemporary hit radio, [27] and urban contemporary radio [28] stations in the United States on May 20, July 7, 2003.[35] The song was issued as a CD single in the United Kingdom on June 30, 2003.[36] "Crazy in Love" was released as a digital EP in several European countries, including Austria,[37] Belgium,[38] Denmark,[39] Finland,[40] Italy,[41] the Netherlands,[42] Norway,[43] and Sweden on July 8, 2003.[44] This digital EP was also available in Anthem of 2003.[49] Tim Sendra of AllMusic described the song as a "stunning pop masterpiece",[1] while Stephen Thomas Erlewine of the same website called it "deliriously catchy".[50] Darryl Sterdan of Jam! noted the "Crazy in Love" ... roars out of the speakers on the strength of a propulsive horn sample and the charged presence of her pal, Jay-Z."[12] Ben Ratliff of Blender magazine called the "uh-oh, uh-oh" phrase catchy.[13] MTV News considered "Crazy in Love" to be the "proudest moment" of Dangerously in Love. [52] Similarly, Allison Stewart of The Washington Post called it the best song on the album, praising its instrumentation, harmonies, and the rap verse of Jay Z.[16] This was echoed by Kelefa Sanneh of The New York Times who wrote that "Crazy in Love" is the best one on the album thanks to its "simplicity, irresistible combination of triumphant horns and a wicked hip-hop beat".[17] She added that "[Beyoncé's] vocals - as deft and accurate as ever - convey none of the giddy rush that the lyrics describe."[17] Likewise, Sal Cinquemani of Slant Magazine wrote the lyrical arrangement, the music structure and the guest vocals by Jay Z all contributed in making "Crazy in Love" a wonderful resume for Beyoncé.[10] Rob Fitzpatrick of NME called "Crazy in Love" a "head-nodding [and] body-rocking funk-soul genius" and wrote that it is "a 100 per cent, stone-cold, dead-cert classic". He complimented Beyoncé's vocals, describing them as "genuinely, hip-grindingly fruity".[53] Los Angeles Times writer Natalie Nichols noted that "sexy dance tunes as the vintage funk-flavored 'Crazy in Love'" made Dangerously in Love a great album.[22] Neil Drumming of Entertainment Weekly wrote that the song has a "fresh sound".[15] Spence D. of IGN Music wrote that Beyoncé rides the "infectious rhythm" with grace and mid-range seductively. He added, "As [it] can be expected, the track bumps when Jay drops his distinctive uptown flavor. While other rap-meet-R&B tracks often fall flat, this one works well as Beyoncé and Jay's verbals play nicely against one another."[20] Lisa Verrico of The Times wrote that Jay Z performed a "decent rap", however, "Beyoncé and the beats save the day" and that "Crazy in Love" was a departure for Beyoncé from Destiny's Child.[21] Commercial performance "Crazy in Love" was a commercial success in the United States, debuting at number fifty-eight on the Billboard Hot 100. Although it hadn't yet been released to retail stores, the single gained much attention and reached number one on the Billboard Hot 100 based on heavy rotation alone.[54] The same week it reached number one, Dangerously in Love debuted on the Billboard 200 at number one on July 12, 2003.[55] Substantial airplay, and later in retail, gains of "Crazy in Love" allowed it to dominate the chart, [56] spending eight consecutive weeks at number one on the Hot 100, [57] making it Beyoncé's first number one single in her solo career. According to Nielsen SoundScan, "Crazy in Love" was the most downloaded song in the top fifty, and twenty-seven weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" was the most downloaded song in the United States for four consecutive weeks in the top fifty, and twenty-seven weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in the top fifty, and twenty-seven weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" spent fifteen weeks in July 2003.[58] "Crazy in Love" weeks.[69] In Australia, "Crazy in Love" peaked at number two on the ARIA Singles Chart, [70] and was certified platinum by the Recording Industry Association of New Zealand (RIANZ).[72] "Crazy in Love" reached top ten throughout Europe, [70] including Austria, the Belgian territories of Flanders and Wallonia, Denmark, Germany, Hungary, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland.[70] Music video Production and synopsis The music video of "Crazy in Love", released in May 2003, was directed by Jake Nava and filmed in downtown Los Angeles.[73] In MTV Making of the Video 2003 documentary, Beyoncé described the video's conception: "[It] celebrates the evolution of a woman. It is about a girl who is at the point of a relationship. She realizes that she is in love, she is doing stuff she would not normally do but she does not care. It does not matter she is just crazy in love."[74] The opening sequence of the video features Jay-Z as a passenger in a car speeding along Mission Road in Los Angeles, where he encounters Beyoncé, standing in the middle of the road, at the Fourth Street bridge. Beyoncé performs in various dance sequences, beginning with her wearing a white tank top, denim blue shorts, and red high-heels. She performs an elaborate solo dance on a riser. The scene shifts to a gold set with a mock photo shoot, before moving into a scene with dancers detailing Beyoncé and dancing against a wall while wearing caps and full length pants. Jay Z appears and ignites a line of petrol leading to a car parked under the bridge, which explodes in flames. Jay Z performs his rap in front of the burning car, and Beyoncé dances beside him, wearing an exotic silk print over a fur coat, before kicking the valve off a fire hydrant. She continues to dance while the water is flying everywhere. The video ends with Beyoncé and her dancers wearing vibrant Versace dresses in front of a large fan. Their outfits contrast with the neutral colors of the background, the video. Carmit Bachar, then a member of The Pussycat Dolls, is one of the dancers. Reception and accolades The music video received acclaim by music critics. Cynthia Fuchs, writing for PopMatters commented that the photo shoot scene uses the routine used by Jennifer Lopez in the video for "Jenny from the Block" (2002) with hot lights, scary makeup, and inclusion of many shots of legs. [24] She wrote that Beyoncé shody becomes its underiable emblem. "[24] Tom Moon of The Philadelphia Inquirer wrote that Beyoncé shody becomes its underiable emblem." music video won three awards at the 2003 MTV Video Music Awards in the categories of Best Female Video, and Best Choreography. It however lost to Good Charlotte's "Lifestyles of the Rich & Famous" in the Viewer's Choice category.[75] Director Nava also won a Music Video Production Association award for the Best R&B Video, and Best Choreography. in 2004.[76][77] During the same year, the video won the Best Collaboration award at the 2004 MTV Video Music Awards Japan, where it was also nominated at the 36th NAACP Image Awards for the Outstanding Music Video award.[79] It won the Best International Video award at the 2004 MuchMusic Video Awards.[80] The song is also recognized as the Best Selling Mobile Ringtone in the United Kingdom for 2003[81] In 2014, The Guardian writer Michael Cragg included the clip for "Crazy in Love" in his list of the ten best music videos by Beyoncé. He offered high praise for it, saying "Aware of how much of a statement the song was, the video is a checklist of icon-making visuals, from the locations... the dance moves... to the part where she makes bubble blowing look like the sexiest thing a human could do."[82] Live performances Jay Z and Beyoncé performing "Crazy in Love" during her 2009 I Am... World Tour Beyoncé first performed "Crazy in Love" with Jay Z at the 2003 BET Awards. They also performed the song during the 2003 MTV Video Music Awards.[83] She sang the song in a medley, with the pre-recorded vocals of Sean Paul on "Baby Boy" (2003).[84] "Crazy in Love" was included on the set list for most of Beyoncé's concert tours. The song was the closing track of her Dangerously in Love World Tour that began in late 2003.[85] On February 8, 2004, Prince appeared at the 46th Annual Grammy Awards with Beyoncé.[86][87] In a performance that opened the show, they performed "Crazy in Love" live at the 2004 BRIT Awards February 17, 2004. Monique Jessen And Todd Peterson wrote that she, "...lit up the stage with her performance of "Crazy in Love", wearing a white Roberto Cavalli dress and nearly half a million dollars worth of diamonds. The pop diva, appearing onstage in a puff of smoke, stopped midway through the song to pull up her top before walking away with the best international female solo artist award."[89] Beyoncé and Jay Z also performed "Crazy in Love" at The Prince's Trust Urban Music Festival at Earls Court in London on May 31, 2004.[90] "Crazy in Love" was the first song on Beyoncé's set list on The Beyoncé Experience in Los Angeles and the I Am... Tour at several venues, including the Odyssey Arena in Belfast, the O2 Arena in London, and in Athens and Sydney.[91] On August 5, 2007, Beyoncé emerged in a sparkling silver dress with a long train. She walked to the front of the stage, did a couple of snaps of her neck and then started singing "Crazy in Love". She climbed a staircase where her all-female band and three backup singers were positioned. [92] The staircase moved forward in two places; top part moved while the bottom poked out more. [92] At the top of her staircase, she removed her train and returned to the main stage. Her backup singers followed and danced with Beyoncé. [92]

After "Crazy in Love", Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you, who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performing "Crazy in Love" during her 4 Intimate Nights with Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Who do you think you are? / Ha, ha, bless your soul."[92] Beyoncé performed a short rendition of Gnarls Barkley's "Crazy" (2006), singing: "Crazy" (2006), s really sing, a lot who can dance, a lot more who look good — but really no other who can combine all three and add iconic star power like Miss Beyoncé, arguably the best all-around stage performer in the game right now."[92] Jon Pareles of The New York Times wrote: "Beyoncé needs no distractions from her singing, which can be airy or brassy, tearful or vicious, rapid-fire with staccato syllables or sustained in curlicued melismas. But she was in constant motion, strutting in costumes (most of them silvery), from miniskirts to formal dresses, flesh-toned bodysuit to bikini to negligee."[93] Frank Scheck of The Hollywood Reporter wrote: "Her performance of 'Crazy in Love' featured some surprising arrangements that gave the material freshness".[94] Performances of "Crazy in Love" were included on her live albums The Beyoncé Experience Live (2007),[95] and the deluxe edition of I Am... [100][101] During the ITV special A Night With Beyoncé which aired on December 4 in the United Kingdom, Beyoncé performed the song during her Revel Presents: Beyoncé Live revue in Atlantic City, New Jersey, United States' entertainment resort, hotel, casino and spa Revel.[103] During the performance, Jay-Z did not appear on stage but his pre-recorded voice was heard. Dan DeLuca of noted that the song was one of the "beat-savvy booty-shaking workouts" performed during the revue.[104] Jim Farber of New York Daily News wrote that "The first, and last parts of the show stressed the steeliest Beyoncé, told in bold songs" like "Crazy in Love".[105] A writer of Black Entertainment Television noted that, "She dazzled fans with an assortment of high-energy performances of her upbeat hits like... 'Crazy in Love.'"[106] Beyoncé also performances of her upbeat hits like... 'Crazy in Love.'"[107] In July 2013, while placing Beyoncé at number 33 on their list of 50 Best Live Musicians, the writers of Rolling Stone magazine noted that the performance of "Crazy in Love" was a highlight during her live shows with the singer "expertly poppin' her booty".[108] Cover versions Several artists have recorded cover versions of "Crazy in Love". In 2003, Irish singer-songwriter Mickey Joe Harte recorded an acoustic rendition of "Crazy In Love" for the charity album Even Better Than the Real Thing Vol. 1. Alternative rock band Snow Patrol recorded the song during a BBC session with Zane Lowe. Snow Patrol's version was released as a B-side to the single "Spitting Games",[109] on the compilation Cosmosonica - Tom Middleton Presents Crazy Covers Vol. 1[110] and on Snow Patrol's compilation album Up to Now.[111] Ross Langager of PopMatters noted that their cover "sparks an initial chuckle of recognition but soon after becomes more than a bit unfortunate".[111] David Byrne closed his concert at the Hollywood Bowl on June 27, 2005, with a samba-tinged version of "Crazy in Love".[112] In 2007, American alternative rock band Switchfoot produced a vock version that was released as part of Yahoo!'s CoverArt series. Switchfoot produced a video for the song in June 2014 for The A.V. Club's A.V. Undercover series.[114] British band The Magic Numbers performed "Crazy in Love" on the Australian radio station Triple J, and recorded it for the Starbucks (Hear Music) compilation album, Sounds Eclectic: The Covers Project (2007).[115] Tracy Bonham covered the song with guitar and violin accompaniment, for her 2007 album In The City + In The Woods.[116] British close harmony trio The Puppini Sisters covered "Crazy in Love" for their 2007 album The Rise and Fall of Ruby Woo; this was remixed by the electronic cover of the song. In 2009, Pattern Is Movement recorded a cover of "Crazy in Love", which they claimed was inspired by Anohni's version; this cover was included on their September 4, 2009 Daytrotter session.[118] Antony and the Johnsons released an orchestral version of the song as the b-side to their 2009 single "Aeon".[119] Indie singer-songwriter Eden recorded a cover version of "Crazy in Love" for his final extended play (EP) under the EDEN Project alias.
German group The Baseballs covered the song in rockabilly style for their debut album Strike! Back in August 2010.[120] "Crazy in Love" was performed live on Australian Idol during the first season by winner Guy Sebastian on the Final 2 showdown in 2003.[121] A jazz version was performed during the fourth season by runner-up Jessica Mauboy on the Final 6 Big Band show in 2006.[122] In June 2008, Mauboy performed "Crazy in Love" on Indonesian Idol with some eliminated contestants.[123] Singapore Idol contestant Maia Lee performed "Crazy in Love" on the show. In March 2012, Swing Republic released their electro swing cover version which also ended up featuring on their album released the same year entitled Midnight Calling. In June 2012, Robin Thicke and Olivia Chisholm's performance, saying that "Her voice sounded thin, and she just can't seem to shake that Stepford Wife stare." [125] Emeli Sandé and The Bryan Ferry Orchestra recorded a cover of the song which was included on The Great Gatsby soundtrack (2013).[126] Upon hearing a preview of the song with a "surprising, simmering urgency".[127] Kyle Anderson of Entertainment Weekly also wrote that the swing cover of "Crazy in Love" was one of the highlights on the album.[128] On October 21, 2013, Third Degree covered the song on the third series of The Voice Australia.[129][130] In 2015, Monica Michael covered the song on The X Factor UK. Filipina actress Denise Laurel covered the song while impersonating Beyoncé, based on her performance at the Super Bowl XLVII halftime show on Your Face Sounds Familiar, in which Laurel won the season. Usage in media In 2002, Beyoncé signed a contract with Pepsi, and appeared on several of its advertising campaigns, one of which featured "Crazy in Love" as background music.[131] After winning the Best Collaboration Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the award to the show's host, comedian Mo'Nique, who parodied the choreography from the "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the award to the show's host, comedian Mo'Nique, who parodied the choreography from the "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the award to the show's host, comedian Mo'Nique, who parodied the choreography from the "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the award to the show's host, comedian Mo'Nique, who parodied the choreography from the "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the award to the show's host, comedian Mo'Nique, who parodied the choreography from the "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the award to the show's host, comedian Mo'Nique, who parodied the choreography from the "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the award to the show's host, comedian Mo'Nique, who parodied the choreography from the "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards, Beyoncé dedicated the awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 BET Awards for "Crazy in Love" at the 2004 B

 Remix speeds up the beat, taking it from hip-hop to house territory.[1] A version of the song included on Asian special edition of Dangerously in Love features a rap in Mandarin Chinese performed by Beyoncé for the film Fifty Shades of [because] it pushes my boundaries in a direction that I wouldn't necessarily come up with. Obviously I know how 'Crazy in Love' goes, but I knew there was the possibility her vocals would be different. It's almost more vulnerable and flipped makes it even more powerful."[179] The track was then officially released through iTunes Store on Beyonce's birthday, September 4, 2015.[180] The single cover artwork is a black and white version of the original single cover. The rendition was performed for the first time during the 2015 Budweiser Made in America Festival on September 5, 2015. It was included on the setlist of The Formation World Tour, alongside the original version. The song's original portions were written by Beyoncé, the Weeknd, Danny Schofield, Ben Diehl, Terius Nash, Ahmad Balshe, and Jordan Asher. Also credited as songwriters are Burt Bacharach and Hal David (for the sample of American soul musician Isaac Hayes' 1969 version of "Walk On By") and David Portner, Noah Lennox, and Brian Weitz of neo-psychedelic band Animal Collective (for an interpolation of their 2009 song "My Girls"). The song's music video is part of a one-hour film with the same title as its parent album, originally aired on HBO. Background and recording Music producer Ben "Billions" Diehl talked to Billboard about his work with great artists and mentioned that Beyoncé already knows a song "6 Inch" since 2013. According to Diehl, he, rapper Belly and producer Danny Boy Styles met in October of the same year to work on music. "Originally a Belly song with participation from French Montana," Diehl said. "We got a response that Beyoncé had liked and then we decided: we should continue working together, I think they get somewhere. It turns out you do not know when that day will come." When a singer released her surprise visual album in December 2013, Diehl was quick to check out a list of songs, but "6 Inch" was not there. "Everything went well," Diehl concludes. After three years, in 2016, the song finally came out on Beyoncé's sixth album, Lemonade, with a guest appearance from the Weeknd.[1] Commercial performance After the release of Lemonade, "6 Inch" also entered on the Hot R&B/Hip-Hop songs chart at number ten, becoming Beyoncé's twenty-seventh top-ten single on the chart.[2] In overseas charts, the song entered in digital charts in top five, including Greece and Sweden. As of June 2016, the song has sold 265,607 downloads in US.[3] Live performance "6 Inch" was included on the set list of The Formation World Tour on the last show, on October 7, 2016, at New Jersey's MetLife Stadium with the singer performing the song while suspended upside down.[4] Charts Chart (2016) Peakposition Australia Urban Singles (ARIA)[5] 6 Belgium (Ultratip Flanders)[6] 15 Canada (Canadian Hot 100)[7] 31 Euro Digital Songs (Billboard)[11] 47 Germany (Official Germany (O Iceland (RÚV)[12] 3 Scotland (OCC)[13] 31 Sweden Digital Songs (Billboard)[14] 4 UK Singles (OCC)[15] 35 UK Hip Hop/R&B (OCC)[16] 11 US Billboard)[18] 10 Chart (2016) Position US Hot R&B/Hip-Hop Songs (Billboard)[18] 37 References ^ Leight, Elias (2017-01-17).
