This thread will replace our old man, who has not been updated in quite some time. This thread will also introduce a new format. Instead of providing a separate link for each test, we will now provide a single link to a folder containing all the tests. Yes, this change will make it easier for interested parties to issue copyright strikes against files, but it will also make it easier for us to reload, if necessary. More importantly, this new format should also be more convenient for our community, as users here will no longer have to upload and download files one by one. If you think you will need access to SAT QAS in the future, please download and save these files now. Moderators will do what we can to keep the mail and files up, but the safest route is to make sure you have your own copies. Link 1: Official Practice Tests of the College BoardLink 2: All other QAS of May 2016 - October 2021Link 3: Official Practice of the PSATsLink College Board 4: Released PSATs of 2015 - 2020Link 5: Practice Tests of the Board of Colleges 2 and 4What are "released tests"? The evidence released, also known as QAS, is evidence that the College Council has made available to test speakers through the paid question and answer service (QAS). In 2016 and 2017, QAS was available for national tests (US) on Saturday in January, May and October and for international tests on Saturday in May. It was also available for April School Day testing. As of 2018, the Board of Colleges suspended the administration of January and replaced the date of January of QAS with the date of March of QAS. All other QAS dates remained the same. What are "unliberal tests"? Unreleased tests are non-QAS dates tests -- like June, November, December, etc. -- that have been "legated" (this isObtained and illegally distributed). Why are not testing without freedom in this post? The not released tests are stolen materials and copyright. Include them here would directly contravene the REDDIT service conditions. Even if the moderators wanted to publish them (which No), we just could not do it without putting the sub in danger of suspension. This is not exaggerated: a large preparation test was suspended (R / MCAT) following the aggressive complaints of the author rights of UWORLD, and the university plate can be very aggressive when it comes to unrelated tests. For example, R / SAT receives requests for disposal of copyright (originally with the university plate) when even the individual images of unrelated tests slide through the moderators. Here is an example of what we see in our regular mode of moderation. Do you see the entries of the Copyright "of Reddit Legal" entries? That is a university board, the presentation of DMCA strike against the mere images of unrelated tests. Can I ask for inventing tests Dites in the sub? Please do not do it, it will violate Rule # 4 in the sidebar and will probably result in a prohibition. Why did you include PSAT? You can use to prepare for SAT? general, the past PSAT / NMSQT tests are less valuable as the preparation resources that the last SAT tests (obviously), but are more valuable than the SAT tests of third parties (Princeton's review, etc.). Many seek that the PSAT / NMSQT Writing is virtually indistinguishable from writing. But it perceives more large differences between the reading of SAT and PSAT and mathematics. Important: Please note that the PSAT 8/9 test is designed to be designed for younger students (as young as eighth grade) and, therefore, e S Much less válida as preparation tools for SAT. To those found in the oldest SAT, such as those before the Redisean of March 2016? We will not be including any SAT before 2016 here. The Redisean of March 2016 was as dramatic as to do tests before 2016, essentially obsolete as preparation resources. Some of the linked tests "curves" are missing. Why? At some moment of the last years, the University Board became considerably less diligent about the information of the liberation curve with the online QAs. Recently, our Moderator U / YodatsRacist has been doing an outstanding job to reconstruct test curves in our official score publication wires (example here). If you can not find anything useful in the drop threads, then consider simply searching for the relevant terms (e.g.: "March 2019 sat curve") and see what you can find. The links are below. Why didn't you get them back? Yes, the links will inevitably fall. That's why you're supposed to download them and save them somewhere offline. When these problems occur, the moderators will make an effort to solve them as soon as possible. I've been using CP for the last month and a half and, before the October SAT, I did a single practice test and scored 1400 (670 in math and 730 in R/W). The problem is in the real SAT that I have 1340 (640 in math and 700 in R/W). I plan to take the Nov/Dec SAT and want to see significant improvements. I have been studying every day and making meticulous notes about my mistakes since the October SAT. I've done 3 practice tests and scored 1400 on each, but I can't wrap my head around how I handled 1340 on the actual test. Was I lucky when I did the practice tests? Is this level of consistency good as the SAT covers a broad curriculum or does it suggest stagnation? I will take another practice test at some point this weekend and hope to see a score improvement. Any advice/teams? Page 2Posted by4 years ago4 comentarios
